Finland's Four Top Diplomats Are Given Passports

Procope, Three Aides, Asked To Leave in Hurry

Will Be Watched
Pending Departure

WASHINGTON, June 16 (AP)—The United States government declared Finland's four top diplomats guilty of activities "inimical to the interests of the United States" today and directed them to leave the country as quickly as possible.

Pending their departure, the diplomats and their families were ordered confined to their homes except for exercise and other specified purposes and were placed under police surveillance. Their telephone lines were ordered disconnected although forty-five minutes after the action was taken it was possible to reach them at the Finnish legation. No comment was forthcoming, however.

Minister Handed Passport

The Finnish minister, Hjalmar J. Procope, was handed his passport at the State department at 5 p. m. (E.W.T.) today. The passports of his three counselors were delivered to them by American diplomatic officials.

Later, Procope and the others appeared on the legation steps to pose for photographers.

"I am sorry this has happened," he told them.

Approximately a dozen plainclothes officers were stationed in the immediate vicinity of the house after the State department had disclosed its decision.

Relations Not Broken

"This action," a state announcement said, "does not constitute a rupture of diplomatic relations between the United States and Finland."

State department officials said that police surveillance would be maintained over the Finnish representatives until they departed.

The passports covered members of the families as well as the Finnish diplomats themselves.

The announcement declared in reference to the minister and his associates:

Requested To Leave

"The minister of Finland, Mr. Hjalmar J. Procope, and three counselors of the Finnish legation were handed their passports at 5 p. m. today and requested to leave the country at the earliest moment because of activities on their part inimical to the interests of the United States."

The whole group will be expected to leave the country as soon as transportation with safe conduct can be arranged. This may take several weeks.

Meanwhile, they will be expected to remain in their homes except for specific purposes permitted by the State department.

While no official announcement of a chief of legation was made, Alexander Thesleff, secretary, apparently becomes charge d'affaires. The American legation in Helsinki is maintained with only a skeleton staff with Edmund Gullion as charge d'affaires.

Calais Defenses Heavily Bombed

By AUSTIN BALMEAR

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 16 (AP)—American heavy bombers took to the air in clearing weather late today and struck directly at military installations in the Pas De Calais area of France from which the Germans are believed to have launched new "secret weapon" pilotless planes which exploded in England last night and throughout today.

A fleet of nearly 1,000 Flying Fortresses and Liberators and escorting fighters made the assault, striking also at three Nazi air bases in the vicinity of Paris and Leam, eighty miles to the northeast.

Warning from Churchill

Prime Minister Churchill disclosed weeks ago that the Nazis were preparing in the Pas De Calais area just such a robot attack as they directed against Britain last night and today. The American heavies streaked to their targets just as soon as they could after clearing of weather over the continent which had kept Britain-based planes largely grounded during the day.

'JAPS' BAGGED IN NORMANDY

AMONG PRISONERS TAKEN in fighting in northern France were these infantrymen of Mongolian origin, probably sent to Japan from Manchukuo and then to Germany for propaganda purposes. Whatever the reason, they appear happy that their association with the Nazi army has ended. United States Signal Corps Radiophoto.

Germans Selling Record in Italy

Retreat 25 Miles
Within 24 Hours

By SID FEDER

ROME, June 16 (AP)—Pursuing disorganized German troops who in many instances were throwing away their equipment and surrendering in droves, Allied forces leaped forward as much as twenty-five miles in the past twenty-four hours in their drive up the Italian peninsula and reached points within eighty-five miles of the enemy's so-called Pisa-Florence-Rimini defense line.

American troops pounding up the West coast captured Grosseto, nearly 100 airline miles from Rome, after a swift advance from Orbetello. Grosseto was the site of one of the Nazis' major military airbases, and its long landing strips will be of almost immediate value to the Allied tactical air force in harassing the enemy's retreat.

No Organized Resistance

Eighth army formations swept through the industrial city of Terni and on beyond into the highway towns of Todi and Massa Martana, sixty airline miles north of Rome, without encountering any organized resistance. Fifth army forces pounded beyond Lake Bolsena through Acquapendente, sixty-five miles northwest of the capital, and South African armored units raced ten miles beyond Orvieto to Ficule.

Since the break in their temporary defense line two days ago the Nazis have fled so fast the Allies have had difficulty keeping in touch with them. Abandoned enemy equipment carpets the road-sides and German prisoners have streamed to the rear in increasing numbers. One Eighth army armored regiment took so many prisoners it had to call for assistance to handle them.

Gas for Motor Boats

OAKLAND, Md., June 16 (AP)—Minimum gasoline rations have been granted to twenty-one motor boat owners because of a ruling by the state rationing board. W. W. Dawson, chairman of the local War Price and Rationing Board, disclosed today.

Bomber Production Hit:

Tool Grinders in Superfortress Plant in Chicago Quit Their Jobs

CHICAGO, June 16 (AP)—Officials of the Dodge Chicago plant of the Chrysler Corporation, which is producing about ninety per cent of the Superfortresses, announced that tool grinders quit work today in protest over the discharge of one worker.

The company was silent beyond stating:

"Tool grinding is one of the most important operations in manufacturing parts for the B-29 Superfortress bomber engines."

The company said all sixty-seven tool grinders on the first shift quit work at 4 p. m., a half hour before their shift was to end and that the entire second shift of fifty tool grinding employees refused to work also.

Americans Gain On Saipan Beach

Jap Resistance
Reported Broken

By CHARLES M. McMURTRY

UNITED STATES PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, PEARL HARBOR, June 16 (AP)—United States assault forces have smashed Japanese resistance at heavily defended Charan-Kanoa beach on Saipan island after once having been hurled back a short distance, Admiral Nimitz announced tonight.

Nimitz reported in a communique that the enemy resisted with intense mortar and artillery fire but the American positions were consolidated during the night of June 14 as naval forces heavily bombarded enemy installations.

Advance Half a Mile

He reported that at midday on June 15 a major element of the Yanks began an attack which advanced the lines nearly half a mile in the palm-studded Charan-Kanoa area and that lesser advances were made in other unidentified sectors. Preliminary estimates indicate that two Japanese divisions are defending Saipan, Nimitz stated after reporting:

"Our assumption that Saipan island would be strongly held because of its strategic location in the Japanese defensive system has been proven correct."

There still was no announcement here regarding the number of Americans landed on Saipan Wednesday. Tokyo radio reported one division (15,000 men) had been set ashore. A Japanese division normally is between 10,000 and 15,000.

Bitter Fighting Reported

Although the communique spoke of fighting only in general terms it appears the Yanks have advanced nearly two miles north from Agaña point beachhead. This progress was made by bitterest fighting against mortar, artillery, machine-gun fire and tanks through rich sugar cane fields and heavily palm-covered land.

The communique today did not mention tank action on either side although last night's communique reported enemy counterattacks with tanks and Tokyo radio said sixteen American tanks were destroyed.

Germans Launch More Robots in Strange Venture

"Secret Weapon"
Not Convincing

By LEWIS HAWKINS

LONDON, Saturday, June 17 (AP)—The Nazis launched more of their fantastic robot explosive planes against Southern England this morning, continuing attacks in which scores of the small unmanned craft killed people and smashed buildings Thursday night and throughout Friday.

The strange "secret weapons" of which the Germans often have boastfully hinted, were launched from emplacements in France which Allied bombers have tried for months to obliterate.

(The Germans claimed in a broadcast late Friday night that they had virtually annihilated a convoy of ships in the channel with the robot bombers.)

The bizarre flame-spitting robots smashed against several points in a haphazard bombardment which started in darkness and continued intermittently through the day while Britain's anti-aircraft guns crackled at them sporadically.

No Important Damage

Spectacular and eerie as the assault was, however, there was no evidence that the new weapon had done important military damage or that it had shaken blitz-tempered Britain out of its determination to "carry on with its normal business," as Home Secretary Herbert Morrison asked it to do in a statement to Commons about the strange missile.

A broadcast by the German Transocean news agency tonight declared that "damage of the greatest extent has been caused by new German high explosives in London. Warehouses on the Thames are in flames and rail communications are partly disrupted."

Morrison said it had been known for some time that the Nazis were preparing to use the pilotless craft against Britain, and disclosed that a small number were used in a raid last Tuesday morning.

Details Kept Secret

"Last night's attack was more serious and I have not as yet full particulars of the casualties and damage, nor of the number of pilotless aircraft destroyed before they could explode," he told Commons. "Meanwhile, it is important not to give the enemy any information which would help him in directing his shooting by telling him where his missiles landed."

Yanks Show Nazis New Bomb Tactics

LONDON, June 16 (AP)—American fighter-bomber pilots have developed tactics in the last few weeks to give the Germans a good ironic dose of the dive-bombing which they introduced in modern battles, a Thunderbolt flier disclosed today.

Lt. Maurice Martin, of West Virginia, among others, has been boring in so assiduously he nearly bombed his own plane apart in one attack and let go a 700-pounder into a troop concentration from an altitude of only twenty feet. The concussion ripped a big hole in the wing and underside fuselage of his plane.

Old Methods Failed

Martin, 24-year-old West Pointer and member of a veteran experimental dive-bombing group, started a few months ago—with planes not designed with dive-bombing in view—plunging from 18,000 feet to 15,000 and then releasing loads which ran up to a 1,000-pounder under each wing.

They found in this way, they hit, with luck, within a fifteen-square-mile area. They lowered the dive to 12,000 and then to 6,000 feet and focused their hits within a five-square-mile radius. Now, since D-Day, they have been diving from 3,000 feet "until the ground gets in your way," achieving such pinpoint accuracy that in a recent attack on a Seine bridge, fourteen of sixteen Thunderbolts plopped bombs right on the span.

"Pincers" Technique

In a few days they developed a "pincers" technique for decisively knocking out railroad yards and highway convoys.

SUPERFORTRESS IN FLIGHT BESIDE FLYING FORT

PACED BY A FLYING FORTRESS, the famous plane that was its predecessor, one of the new Superfortresses (foreground) is shown as it went through its paces over the American countryside in a test flight. The new bomber, a number of which were used in our second attack on the Japanese homeland, is 27 feet high, 98 feet long, and has a wingspan of 142.2 feet.

Jap Pittsburgh Takes a Beating

4 Superfortresses
Lost in Attacks

By CLYDE A. FARNSWORTH

CHUNGKING, June 16 (AP)—Scores of the mammoth United States B-29 super-flying Fortresses participated in last night's historic blow at the Japanese mainland, pouring a great weight of explosives on "Japan's Pittsburgh" at Yawata and leaving towering pillars of flame visible for sixty miles as the air battleships swept back across the Yellow sea to their Chinese lairs.

(Four of the $1,500,000 planes failed to return, a Washington communique announced. Two went down due to accidents, and the crew of one of these is safe. A third is missing, and fourth fell "to anti-aircraft action over the target"—indicating that the wreckage of the highly-secret craft may be in enemy hands.)

2000-Mile Roundtrip Flight

First detailed stories of the longest bomber flight ever made—more than a 2,000-mile roundtrip—indicated that the Americans might have knocked out a fifth of the enemy's steel production at Yawata, on the north shore of Kyushu island 500 miles southwest of Tokyo.

A communique issued here said "heavy damage" was inflicted at Yawata.

"This is but the beginning of our organized destruction of the Japanese industrial empire," declared Brig. Gen. Kenneth B. Wolfe, chiefly responsible for the production of the sky giant and in charge of the mission.

Associated Press Correspondent Thorburn Wiant, who went along on the raid, wrote while over the target:

Steel Plant Damaged

"Japan's vital steel works is being reduced to a huge rubbish heap by America's biggest, fastest and deadliest bombers roaring overhead one after another. It will take the Japanese months to recover from this blow."

Preliminary reports indicated that the Japanese defenders were surprised as the first big ship thundered over Yawata, which produces one-fifth of the enemy's steel. But intense anti-aircraft fire was encountered by succeeding bombers, which unloaded their destructive cargoes on the enemy's coke ovens and open hearth furnaces.

The Japanese also put some night fighters into the air, but there was no indication that these were effective in combating the heavily-armed Superfortresses, which flew all the way unescorted.

Japanese Prisoners

Barred from Maryland

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 16 (AP)—The Board of Public Works today turned thumbs down on any recommendation for the employment of Japanese in Maryland state institutions and hospitals and implied a "blanket" disapproval of the employment of any relocated Nipponese anywhere in the state.

Superfortresses Set New Distance Record

(By The Associated Press)

Dispatches from China report the Superfortresses set a new bombing distance record in raiding the Yawata steel mills in Southern Japan.

The longest previous record was 2,769 miles of round trip, flown by Seventh air force B-24 Liberators in operations in the Pacific. The B-17 Flying Fortresses, designed for somewhat shorter ranges, have done some of their longest bombing in missions from England to targets on the Baltic and return, a total distance of about 1,800 miles.

Japanese Steel Outpost Crippled

NEW YORK, June 16 (AP)—The bombing of Japan's imperial steel works at Yawata by American Superfortresses may have knocked out one-fourth of Japanese steel plate production and most of the empire's tin plate capacity, steel experts said today.

The big plant blasted Thursday is one of the three largest possessed by the Nipponese, producing about 2,000,000 tons of pig iron annually from 11 blast furnaces and 3,500,000 tons of finished steel, they said.

It is a vital source of supply for Japanese ship and arms production and had a comparatively new tin plate mill essential to the supply of food and weapons to far flung Japanese forces.

Japan is plentifully supplied with all of the essential alloys for war steels with the exception of nickel, as long as she can hold the Philippines and Malaya.

British Regard Robot Planes Like They Did Super-Gun in First War

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Associated Press War Analyst

Initial British reaction to the Nazi cross-channel bombardment with robot flying bombs suggests that this particular German "secret weapon" is likely to have not much effect on the course of the war in Europe than the super-gun firing on Paris in world war one had on that struggle, which was none at all.

That was a hit-or-miss attack. Projectiles hurtled some seventy-five miles through the stratosphere fell at points in Paris a score or more miles apart. The dispersion factor was too great to make it an effective bombardment of military objectives. ### Russians Capture 100 More Towns

Finns Putting Up
Savage Resistance

By RUSSELL LANDSTROM

LONDON, June 16 (AP)—Soviet forces smashing along the northern front captured more than 100 additional populated places today as the Red army of Gen. Leonid A. Govorov forged deeper into Finland despite savage resistance by the Finns, Moscow announced tonight.

The Soviet striking force, estimated in Sweden as at least six divisions totaling probably 70,000 men, seemed headed irresistibly for the key port and naval base of Viiipuri.

Among the newly captured communities named by the broadcast Russian communique tonight were Uskirkko, slightly more than thirty-two miles southwest of the big port, and Jukkola, Virola, Masseljarvi, Pistola and Putrola-Leitilla in the same area.

But Moscow radio reports indicated that other points taken by the slugging Soviet army were as close as twenty-five miles to Viiipuri.

While the two main columns of Russian troops were slashing toward Viiipuri, one on the direct route through Kivimäki and the other along the indirect coastal route, other Soviet forces were hammering away at both flanks to make the offensive a four-pronged drive.

Neutral observers said it would be impossible for Finland to continue resistance for any great length of time and psychological warfare was becoming almost as important as the fierce land battles.

Montebourg Is In Allied Hands, Vicomte Captured

Crisis at Hand
For the Germans

By JAMES M. LONG

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, Saturday, June 17 (AP)—American troops cut the last German rail escape route out of Cherbourg yesterday with the capture of Strategic St. Sauveur Le Vicomte, and also retook ruined Montebourg, only fourteen miles southeast of the prize port, after a furious four-day battle.

The Germans clearly faced a crisis in trying to keep their badly-mauled troops from being split on the peninsula.

American seizure of St. Sauveur, eighteen miles south of Cherbourg, was confirmed officially at midnight by army officials in France. It all but cut in two the Axis forces on the peninsula because United States artillery now is within range of the West coast highway six miles beyond St. Sauveur. That highway is the last Axis link between the French interior and thousands of imperiled German troops in the Cherbourg area.

Seven miles south of St. Sauveur the Americans were reported only four miles from La Haye Du Puits, highway hub of even more importance than St. Sauveur, since the West coast road runs through it. The Americans gained two miles from pretot in the drive on La Haye, dispatches said.

Gain Near Carentan

A three mile gain southwest of Carentan was made by another American column fighting its way across the peninsula.

Capture of St. Sauveur represented a three-mile gain from Reigneville and carried the Yanks across the Douve river on the east side of St. Sauveur. Associated Press front correspondents Don Whitehead said the Americans entered St. Sauveur at noon Friday, fighting from house to house. It is a junction of two big highways.

Headquarters communique No. 22 issued just before midnight told of advances westward across the Cherbourg peninsula but gave no details. It also said Allied troops had scored local successes in the Tilly sector near the eastern end of the front where British and Canadians are engaged. Tilly, however, remains in enemy hands, the bulletin said.

Nazis Fight Desperately

The Germans fought desperately yesterday in an unsuccessful effort to stem the Americans. Whitehead said. The Americans were moving over roads littered with Axis dead and wrecked equipment.

Tough Young Nazi soldiers formed the core of resistance in the area, but they had hurled Polish, Russian and Czech conscripts into the forefront.

The Americans entered St. Sauveur at noon, but there was no official word yet of its capture. Whitehead told of house-to-house battles inside the town. He himself entered it after patrols had gone across the Douve and penetrated into the town.

A headquarters spokesman said it was expected that in a town of such obvious strategic importance the Germans almost certainly would try to win it back with counterattacks as they did last Tuesday at Montebourg on the approaches to Cherbourg. Montebourg is ten miles northeast of St. Sauveur.

Jap Attacks Fail

ADVANCED ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NEW GUINEA, Saturday, June 17 (AP)—Three Japanese counterattacks with tanks on embattled Biak Island, in the Schouten group, have been repulsed by Allied forces, headquarters announced today.

Chinese Jubilant

CHUNGKING, June 16 (AP)—China was jubilant today at news of the American Superfortress raid on Japan, regarding it not as a stunt but as the opening phase of the battle for Tokyo and the forerunner of greater and more devastating attacks.

Explains Accident

EVANSVILLE, Ind., June 16 (AP)—When Patrolman Walter Downs asked Leroy J. Crowley, 44, of St. Louis why his truck swerved and struck a parked automobile Crowley had a simple and conclusive answer. He said:

Canning Centers Will Be Operated At Three Places

Classes Will Be Organized At Midland, Eckhart and Belle Grove

Initial steps toward preparing for the 1944 canning season will be taken next week at three meetings to be held in Allegany county, James H. House, supervisor of food production, War Training program, announced yesterday.

The first of the meetings being held for the purpose of organizing classes for the coming season which gets under way about July 1 is scheduled for June 19 at 8 p. m., in Red men's hall, Midland.

A meeting will be held in the Community building, Eckhart, June 20, at 8 p. m., and in the J. C. Smith building, Belle Grove, June 21 at 8 p. m.

Canning centers were in operation last year at Midland and Belle Grove, with two courses being held in each center.

House stated that the plan operated successfully and the amount of food processed in the centers totaled 12,483 No. 2 or pint cans of fruits, vegetables, meats and soups. The centers were in operation during the months of July, August, September and October.

Speaking before the Eckhart Parent-Teacher Association recently, House outlined the canning center program and explained how they operate and the part they are playing in the war training program.

The program is sponsored by the Allegany County Board of Education.

Blood Bank Meets Last Day's Quota

The final day of Cumberland's Blood Donor project found the 160 pint quota met at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Joseph H. Cromwell, chairman, announced yesterday afternoon, continuing an unbroken week of filled quotas.

A total of 1,362 pints of blood have been donated by persons of the Cumberland area during the ten days the American Red Cross mobile unit has been in operation here.

The last donor of the day was S. H. Storer, Sr., custodian of the Masonic temple.

William M. Hill, Springfield, W. Va., veteran of the North African campaign, was a donor yesterday. Blood plasma was administered to the Springfield man following an injury in the campaign. "I'm glad to give the blood back," the veteran remarked.

Three negroes donated blood yesterday. They were Mrs. Louise Woodridge, Miss Margaret Erwin and Andrew Fraser, all of this city.

The mobile unit will go to Camp Mohabid Monday and is booked solid through September, Cromwell said.

Two soldiers, Pvt. Earl Lyons, Keyser, and Sgt. Angelo Barbarito, Piedmont, helped to pack the equipment into the mobile unit.

Under the direction of Jeremiah T. Deffenbaugh, captain of the South End fire department, yesterday's quota was packed for shipment by 4 o'clock, when the unit left for Baltimore.

School Attendance Group Will Meet Here July 25-26

A meeting of the executive committee of the National League To Promote School Attendance will be held in Cumberland July 25 and 26, it was announced yesterday by Arthur G. Ramey, secretary.

Meetings will be held in the office of the Allegany County Board of Education from 9:30 a. m. to noon and 1 to 4 p. m. each day.

The executive committee met here last August and when the meeting place was proposed for this year the majority indicated that Cumberland was the most favorable location.

Two Persons Treated In Local Hospitals

Federal Tax Limitation Would Bring More Revenue

OF EQUAL IMPORTANCE and more immediately needed than Senator Tydings's proposal for a constitutional amendment prescribing, as does the constitution of Maryland, that the federal government be restricted in borrowing money to the enactment of taxes to meet it, is the proposal for another constitutional amendment limiting the power of Congress to impose taxes in peacetime to a maximum rate of twenty-five per cent, which has already received the indorsement of seventeen states.

The chief objection to the latter proposal is that the limitation would reduce the payments of large taxpayers and thus weaken the plan of making the larger incomes pay more because of their size. But that change has not been overlooked by proponents of the measure and it is deemed desirable for the simple reason that the money thus released would find its way into business and industry, thus stimulating them proportionately and providing the jobs that will be needed for the postwar era. This brings to mind the Rockwell formula, which is that "customers make production, production makes industry, industry makes employment and employment makes customers, thus completing the cycle." Such a formula cannot be achieved with continued throttling taxes.

But the strongest argument for the proposal, to the notion of this newspaper, is the conclusion by proponents, which seems amply justified, by reason and experience, that the lower tax rate will, over a period of time, produce the greater revenue. The maximum rate of twenty-five per cent, accordingly, would not endanger the federal revenue requirements. Past experience furnishes conclusive evidence of the fact that easier taxes tend to produce more revenue.

As proponents of the amendment declare, it is only through a drastic reduction in tax rates and the elimination of waste and extravagance that we can hope to maintain a balanced budget after the war, pay on the federal debt, keep industry operating at a satisfactory level, provide an adequate market for the products of the farm and the factory, and maintain a high level of employment at satisfactory wages.

Distinction should be noted as to the effect of the amendment on government extravagance. If the amendment should provide even more revenue, the means of spending would still be available, hence the amendment in itself would not stop that extravagance by limiting the funds available. Prevention of the wasteful spending calls for something more than a limitation of tax rates. It means turning out the squanders, which should be done at the November election.

American Submarines Are Doing Their Stuff

THE STEADILY INCREASING DEADLINESS of American submarines is emphasized by the navy's announcement of the sinking of eighteen more Japanese ships in the Pacific. The new sinkings bring the total for the past month to sixty-three, an average of two ships sunk each day.

Included in the latest bag were ten cargo ships, seven transports and a tanker—ships the Japanese can ill afford to lose and sunk at a rate Japanese replacement efforts cannot match. The Japanese now have lost 607 ships to American submarines alone and 1,448 ships as a result of all types of American action.

Much of the credit for the rapidly growing toll of Japanese shipping by American submarine action is attributed to the secret experiments of Vice Adm. Charles A. Lockwood, Pacific submarine commander. He has been awarded the Legion of Merit for important contributions to submarine technique.

The rate at which Japanese ships are being destroyed by American submarines, planes and surface vessels lends strong support to President Roosevelt's statement that, although "we still have a long way to go to Tokyo," the Japanese can be brought "to unconditional surrender or to national suicide much more rapidly than has been thought possible."

Success in the battle of attrition is playing an important part in Allied calculations.

Tactics Based On Forlorn Hopes

IN BOTH AXIS CAMPS the commanding warlords have accepted as an essential part of their strategy the withholding of some of their strength until such time as it can be used most effectively to bolster the advantage of their interior positions.

Thus it is reported that Germany is holding in reserve a sizeable air force with the intent of turning it on full blast when the Allies are caught under handicap. The Japanese fleet is being hoarded, presumably until America has extended its supply lines further.

This is the old device of ambush—concealment of a force and its sudden emergence as a surprise to the enemy. It is not a device of victory but a method of stalling off defeat. The Germans conceivably can punish the Allies severely at some point by an air force not hitherto in the fray. But such an air force could not hope to last long against the overwhelming strength of the Allies overhead.

It is possible for the Japanese fleet to come from concealment and wreak havoc upon one American task force. But its ability to do so a second time would vanish as America rallied its overpowering naval units for the kill. Germany and Japan are now overwhelmingly outclassed and can resort only to tactics based on forlorn hopes.

Allegany Loses a Worthy Citizen

ALLEGANY COUNTY has lost one of its finest citizens in the sudden passing of R. Hilary Lancaster, of Frostburg, chief judge of the orphans court, fraternal leader, churchman, musician and sportsman. He was well-known and well-liked throughout the county, and his departure will be keenly felt in many circles by reason of his active participation in them. It is unusual to have a man with such varied interests and such vigor and perseverance to carry on in all of them as Mr. Lancaster did.

Of the many groups and organizations in which Judge Lancaster was thus prominently engaged, the Republican party of the county will suffer as keenly as any, perhaps more so. He was not only a loyal party member but one whose work therein was exceptional. He gave more attention perhaps than any other party leader to the registration of voters and was always to be relied upon when real spade work was to be done in the interest of party success and the furtherance of its ideals, which he consistently upheld with strong convictions.

While high tributes are due this man for his varied and faithful activities, it is also meet to include in them a testimonial to his splendid personality. Hilary was always amiable and his smiling face, his cheerful words and his constant optimism gave a lift to the hearts of all the many who met him. For this will he be long remembered.

Father Is Entitled To a Word of Cheer

IT IS FITTING that this nation is to give a little of its attention and a little of its appreciation to father. For he is an institution as old as the human race.

The contemplative approach to him is not so sentimental as that to mothers. Possibly that is because immemorially father has stood for order and discipline and mother for the softer refinements. Father stands for discipline within the home and a solid foundation for family life.

These entail responsibilities which are not always appreciated. But father is working harder, worrying more and making greater sacrifices now than he customarily does. Often he is fulfilling his own duties and those of a son at war who would normally be his right hand man.

Father is carrying his business or his job through the complexities and the difficulties of the times. His brow is furrowed under the strain. He should have that word of cheer which he has well earned.

The better housewife of the future is the lady war plant machinist of today. She'll be the only one, probably, who will be able to manage all the gadgets the post-war planners say will fill the kitchen of tomorrow.

When Hitler said his "new order" would last for a thousand years, he may have meant to say that the smell would linger that long.

'I Have Been Here Before'

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Sometimes as you go down a road or turn a corner you come upon a scene that is so familiar to you that you find yourself thinking: "Surely I have been here before!" . . . Once a long time ago, in this life or in some other, you saw that field, you lived in that house, you lifted your head and breathed the air of this familiar place.

Sometimes a thought comes to you. You hear yourself saying certain words. You meet a man or woman. And you are bothered for days by the certainty that somewhere you had that thought, said those words, knew that human being before. . . . It is all so familiar, as comfortable as an old shoe, as dear as a beloved voice. . . . You come to a pause in the hurly-burly. You cease from worry. Confidence floods in upon you. You feel at home. You have been there before.

You have, and you have not. Your feet never wandered down that road. You never had those thoughts, met that friend, lived this moment in this or any other life. . . . But this is the perfect moment, just the same. Now you are living as all men should. Now you have attained your dream. You have that fair emotion, that thought that you have been there before, because at this moment all things are shaped into the semblance of perfection. You and the time and the emotion are one at last. For one fast-flying instant you ARE at home.

You are past the fever and the excitement and the vague unhappiness and every part of you is happy. And you may say that you have been there before because this moment repeats all your moments of peace and beauty. The feel is the same although the time and place are different. You are in the presence of the good, the true and the beautiful and something that lives deep within you has risen to the surface and welcomes the good experience.

Hillman Doesn't Get Money's Worth, Paul Mallon Says

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, June 16 — The Senate Campaign Expenditures committee merely argued with Sidney Hillman about the $669,764.11 worth of political action he promises to furnish, but did not investigate it.

A rather thorough private inquiry has been made by Chairman Dies of the Un-American Activities committee.

A considerable collection of material already is in the committee files, and Dies promised immediate hearings shortly after he retired from the race for re-election, because of a serious illness. But his health continues bad and he has not been able to return. Some House leaders are supposed to have wired him urging him to come as soon as possible.

The only other chance for a thorough investigation rests with the House Political Expenditures committee. It is charged directly with the duty of investigating labor politics, but may not have the time or money for more than a casual job.

Elections Disappointing

Meanwhile, Mr. Hillman has not been getting his money's worth in at least two of the recent elections. The loss of the three top men on the Dies committee was publicly attributed to him and spread fear in Congress, but little attention has been paid the Ohio primary of last May 9 where a complete analysis will show an entirely different story.

There, left-wing labor working with the co-operation of the A. F. of L. to a considerable extent, fared badly. The CIO-indorsed man in the Democratic senatorial primary (Marvin C. Harrison) ran second to an old line Democrat, although carrying Cleveland two to one. A left-wing A. F. of L. leader, with CIO support, ran third for congressman-at-large. A popular A. F. of L. teamster leader in the county commissioners' contest, John Rohrich, ran third. In the other contests, the CIO crowd split about even.

An even plainer set-back for the Hillman crowd was evident in the New York congressional election result of June 6. A great effort was made there. Hundreds of girls paraded the polls. A thorough personal letter-writing campaign to all voters was conducted particularly below Fourteenth street where the Communists are strong. Yet the defeat of their man Cantwell is traced by wise politicians to Tammany.

Word Passed Down

Those in the know say the Hall passed down word that nothing whatever should be done in his behalf. They evidently reasoned his victory would hurt them by increasing the Hillman Communists' political power. At any rate, CIO was not popular enough to win in these two best suited spots.

At the heart of all this dicker-ing and arguing is the simple question of how much politicking labor unions are entitled to, and how much they are immune from public inspection.

The CIO seems to take the position that any real investigation would be a "smear." On the other hand, a lot of congressmen think they have been smeared by CIO unsparingly. The supreme court tried to define a union in a case this week. It held:

"Structurally and functionally, a labor union is an institution which involves more than the private or personal interest of its members. It represents organized institutional activity as contrasted with wholly individual activity."

(The case involved the refusal of a union assistant superintendent to submit his books to the grand jury in a Pennsylvania fraud case.)

Insurance Case Historic

In another case, which may be historic, the court also held insur-

THE WOOD MUST BE WET OR SOMETHING

Coalition Party Idea Is Being Considered But It Lacks Momentum, Sullivan Says

By MARK SULLIVAN

The suggestion that the Republicans nominate a coalition ticket—that is, take a Democrat as their candidate for vice president—is not, so far, much more than a suggestion. A few moves have been made, by individuals on their own responsibility, but these are informal and tentative. A Texas Democrat, a state official, Agriculture Commissioner J. E. McDonald, has sent a letter to the delegates to the Republican national convention, pleading for a ticket to include Democratic Senator Harry F. Byrd, of Virginia. A similar plea is made by another Democrat, former Indiana Congressman Samuel B. Pettengill, who suggests that the Republicans nominate "any Jeffersonian Democrat" as their candidate for vice president.

There have been informal talks, of Democratic leaders with Republican leaders and of Republican leaders with each other. The spirit of these talks has been sympathetic to the idea, but everything has been speculative, nothing concrete. If one were, at this time, to make a guess about the outcome, one would say that the idea of a coalition ticket does not have, so far, sufficient momentum to bring it about. The forces of habit, precedent, and inertia, the tendency to do the usual, seem likely to result in the usual thing—a Republican ticket, not a coalition one.

Voters May Be Moved

So much for leaders. Among voters—Republican ones and Democratic ones who are not New Dealers—the notion of a coalition ticket is likely to grow. There is more reason for it now than on former occasions when the idea has been discussed. What will give the notion momentum will be gradual realization of the momentous thing that is going on in the Democratic party.

Within that party, practically all the radical and left-wing political organizations in the country have come together. The combination is likely to dominate the party. This likelihood does not depend merely on the voting strength of the left-wing groups—though this is great, and one of the left-wing groups, the CIO Political Action Committee, is both strong in numbers and extremely active. The likelihood does not depend merely on the fact that these groups have formally endorsed or nominated President Roosevelt for a fourth term—and what they have done is practically certain to be done also by the Democrats as a party. If, as is practically certain to be done also by the Democrats as a party, if, as is practically certain, the Democrats renominate Mr. Roosevelt, and especially if also they renominate Mr. Wallace for vice president—in that condition few can doubt that radical and left-wing thought would dominate the party.

The tendency would be especially strengthened by renomination of Mr. Wallace. After all, a vice president is chosen for just one purpose—to succeed to the presidency in case the incumbent dies. If Mr. Wallace were to become president, and as such head of the Democratic party, few could doubt that the Democratic regime would be radical. Nor could any doubt that Jeffersonian Democrats would feel that they did not belong in the party.

Here arises the notion that the Republicans should nominate a coalition ticket, taking some Jeffersonian Democrat as their candidate for vice president. The argument is that, since the Democratic party is to be the home of practically all radicals and left-wingers, therefore the Republican party should provide a home for all conservatives.

This is an argument that appeals to many. As a matter of success in the election, it is assumed, and is almost certainly true, that the number of conservatives is greater than the number of radicals and left-wingers—hence that a coalition ticket would certainly win.

Two-Party System Appeals

Further, this argument appeals to those who think it desirable that America should have two parties, clearly defined and separated—one radical and left-wing, one conservative. The desirability of such a clean-cut party alignment has long been discussed. It appeals to the human instinct for simplicity. But there are those who believe that our existing system is better. President Theodore Roosevelt said that if we had one party wholly and permanently conservative, the other and permanently radical and left-wing, the result would be government by "violent oscillation," from one extreme to the other.

As an immediate and practical matter, the coming Republican national convention is to be the most open either party has held in recent years. It is open in the sense that practically all the delegates are uncommitted, for president or for vice president. Of the delegates for the leading contender, Mr. Dewey, only a handful are actually committed—because Mr. Dewey has not been a candidate. And few are formally committed to any other candidate. Practically none are committed for vice president. In such a convention, if a few determined delegates and leaders were to make a drive for nominating a Jeffersonian Democrat for vice president, they might succeed.

Democracy By Compulsion

From the Wheeling, W. Va., Intelligencer

Sumner Welles, former Undersecretary of state, has given the country some good advice. Speaking in New York the other day, Mr. Welles took a firm stand against any policy of the United States that would compel a dictator government in the Western Hemisphere to change its policies. He was equally critical of an attitude of insisting on co-operation in the common war against the Axis. He warned that while compulsion might accomplish the immediate purpose, it would not make for peace and international understanding in the long run. "However much the peoples of other American republics may equally resent and find obnoxious the policies, both foreign and domestic, of a dictatorship within the Americas of the type which I have mentioned," Mr. Welles declared, "they will not fall to realize that the same power which the United States is exercising today in order to dominate that dictatorship may be exercised in the future against them."

What goes for the world, and it applies to the post-war as well as to the war period. We can't thrust democracy on any people, and have not the right to do so if we could.

All Should Have The "Printed Flag," Pettengill Says

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

Did you ever see a courtroom without seats for spectators? Would such a courtroom be legal? No, not in America. The Bill of Rights requires a "public trial." Our fathers knew liberty could not live in secrecy and that justice is not safe in the hands of judges and juries alone.

There are 30,000 different occupations. An American can choose any one of them for his life's work without leaving anyone.

"Leave to live, by no man's leave, underneath the law," as Kipling put it. Again, the Bill of Rights, "Freedom of Opportunity."

You have seen pictures of Nazis leading a gentle faced cow away from a farmer and his weeping wife. Could your cow or any property you own be taken by our government without compensation? No. Why not? The Bill of Rights.

No Gestapo Here

You have read of the Gestapo knocking at the door at night, going through the house, taking letters and papers, leading the husband or son away to an unknown jail or death. Could that happen here? Could Congress or the president authorize it to be done? No, it is forbidden by the supreme law of the land.

What is a liberty? It is a limitation upon the power of government. What chiefly limits the power of government? The American constitution.

Have you ever read the Bill of Rights? A recent poll showed that only one person in four knows what the Bill of Rights is. This is a shocking disclosure. Yet no American would give up a single word in it, if he knew and understood it.

What, in truth, is worth any young American gasping his life away on distant battle-fields, except to preserve our freedom—our Bill of Rights—against all foes, "foreign and domestic." Except for that what great difference would it make who ruled us?

Ought not the Bill of Rights to hang on the wall of every school room, church hall and in every home in America? We salute the flag but no one can understand its meaning without the Bill of Rights. The Bill of Rights is the printed flag.

Beautiful Text Available

The Committee for Constitutional Government, Inc., 205 East 42nd street, New York 17, New York, has prepared the Bill of Rights as a beautiful wall piece and has started a program to place one million wherever men love freedom. The text is not only in English. On inside pages, it is translated into eleven languages: Spanish, Polish, Italian, Russian, German, Bohemian, Chinese, French, Portuguese, Jewish, Greek.

Millions of Americans who have come recently to our shores will read the Bill of Rights in their native tongue who might not in English. Besides, these other languages show its world-wide meaning. "Freedom, the only word in any tongue fit for the lips of a god."

What finer thing could churches, employers, merchants, patriotic and civic groups do on the home front, this year, than to present a copy of this Bill of Rights to their parishioners, workers, customers, school children and naturalized citizens? It would do much to give this land of ours "a new birth of freedom."

Seeing the Handwriting

From the Wheeling, W. Va., Intelligencer

With the Washington high command apparently backing away from an international police force or an armed alliance to enforce the peace, and the trust-busting Assistant Attorney General, Mr. Berge, singing the praises of the private enterprise system, it would appear that the Roosevelt administration is beginning to see the political handwriting on the wall, now that another election is close at hand.

Certainly, Mr. Roosevelt's careful avoidance of any reference to a force-backed peace, and the emphasis he now lays on maintenance of complete American sovereignty in all international relations, are in a new tone for Washington. They suggest very definitely that the White House has become convinced that the American people want no part of a super-state, and are determined that the American viewpoint be kept uppermost in mind by American statesmen in their world planning activities.

Similarly, Mr. Berge speaks with a quite different tone than that used so recently by his chief. Whereas Mr. Biddle advised the Montgomery Ward seizure and in defending it said in effect that the president could take over any business in the country without statutory authority, Mr. Berge hastens to assure the business community that war time controls over industry must end promptly with the end of the conflict if we are to avoid the permanent "disappearance of our economic and political freedom."

These are fair words. But we rather suspect that the American people have been fed up with campaign sugar. They remember what has happened and will, we predict, judge those in power by their fruits.

Vegetable Seasoner

As butter is rationed and so must be used sparingly, a good way to season a plain hot vegetable is to add meat drippings or melted bacon fat just before serving. Don't forget the usual salt and pepper seasoning, however.

For Rainy Day

If you happen by good planning to have extra meat ration points, buy some round steak or stewing meat. Cut into small pieces and store in refrigerator trays. It's "safe" and convenient to have it on hand for a "rainy day."

Give a Party for Pop

TOPS WITH POPS, Summer Strawberry pie.

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
AP Food Editor

The American Father is, by and large, a gentleman who produces the wherewithal for giving parties. He's a nice man, this typical American father, and he doesn't seem to be too crushed or upset by the fact that seldom does anybody (perhaps especially his own family) think of giving a party for him. Such an event would, in fact, probably offer him the surprise of his life. All right—fine! Surprises are fun. Father's Day is June 18. Let's plan a party for Father.

When a party is given for a specific person whom you know as well as you do the father of your own household the most thoughtful way to plan the menu is to fill it full of the things he likes best to eat.

Menu for Father

Onion Soup
Beef Steak
(or Fried Chicken)
Dry Rice
Broiled Tomatoes
Baked Biscuits
Summer Fruit Pie
Coffee
Onion Soup

1 cup sliced onion
1/4 cup margarine
1 quart stock
Salt and pepper

1/2 inch thick slices French bread
Grated Swiss-type cheese

Melt margarine in a heavy skillet or saucpan. Sauté onions in this over low heat until lightly browned, stirring frequently. Add stock (which may be made from bouillon cubes) and simmer fifteen minutes. Season to taste. Toast bread on one side. Sprinkle grated cheese on the other side and brown under boiler flame. Float a round of this bread on each individual serving of soup. If you have any more cheese, serve it in a separate bowl to be sprinkled on the soup before eating.

Perhaps you'll think that my suggesting beef steak for Father's dinner is just absurd. If you're a big family, though, you might be able to save enough points to buy one just this once. If the head of our house is a typical American male you couldn't offer him a greater treat. Fried chicken would make a reasonably adequate substitute, though, especially if you do it well. Clean the chicken which has been cut into frying pieces and wipe it dry. Into a paper bag put flour seasoned with salt and pepper. Shake the pieces of chicken in this a few at a time. Now fry them long and slow, over a low flame, until they're beautifully brown and crisp. And make a creamy gravy by adding thin cream to the pan drippings, left from frying the chicken. This will thicken a little, but shouldn't be very thick. Pour it over the chicken before serving.

Summer Fruit Pie

(Illustrated)

Crust
2 cups whole wheat flakes
1/2 cup melted margarine
1/4 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt

Crush wheat flakes. Blend with margarine, sugar, salt and salt. Turn into lightly greased pie pan. Press down and against sides firmly with bottom of measuring cup. Bake at 350 degrees twenty minutes. Cool before filling.

Filling

4 cups strawberries or other small or sliced fruit
Summer Frosting
Fill baked pie shell with unsweetened fruit. Top with frosting and garnish with perfect berries or pieces of fruit.

Summer Frosting

1 teaspoon plain gelatin
1/2 cup sugar
2 tablespoons cold water
2 egg whites

Soak gelatin in cold water. Beat egg whites foamy, add salt and beat still. Add sugar and beat until it will stand in points. Flavor with vanilla. Dissolve soaked gelatin over hot water and pour in thin stream over egg white mixture, beating continuously. Pile on pie and chill thoroughly before serving.

WHAT THEY SAY ABOUT FATHERS

One father is more than a hundred schoolmasters.

—George Herbert, 1633

A father is a banker provided by nature.

—French proverb

It is a wise father that knows his own child.

—Shakespeare, c. 1597

Like father, like son.

—Latin proverb

Honor thy father and thy mother; that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee.

—Exodus

Nothing is dearer to an old father than a daughter. Sons have spirits of higher pitch, but they are not given to fondness.

—Euripides, c. 421 B. C.

The gods visit the sins of the fathers upon the children.

—Phrygians

A child tells in the street what its father and mother say at home.

—The Talmud, c. 200

Clever father, clever daughter; clever mother, clever son.

—Russian proverb

It is impossible to please all the world and also one's father.

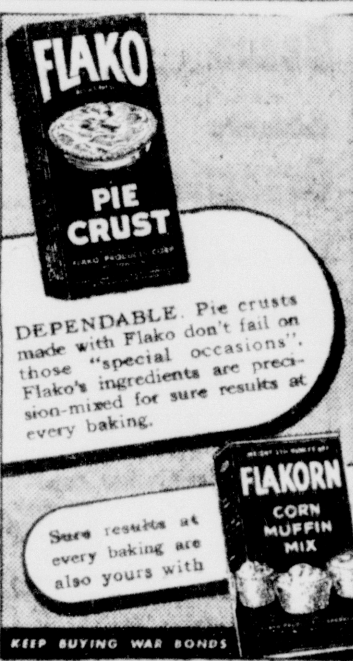

—Jean de La Fontaine, c. 1670

Separating Lettuce

A tight head of lettuce may be easily separated without breaking the leaves by cutting sufficient of the stem to loosen some of the leaves. Then put the cut end of the lettuce under running water and the water will run in between each leaf and separate it. Remove another piece of stem and continue until all leaves are separated.

Gelatin Salad Idea

In making gelatin salads, try substituting gingerale or other soft drinks for part of the water to give it a "different" and very delightful taste.

Stocks Advance to Highest Level Since 1937 in a 2,517,340 Day

By BERNARD S. O'HARA
NEW YORK, June 16 (AP) — The boom spirit continued strong in the stock market today despite a large volume of profit selling prompted by the week's sharp rise.

Highlights of the session included a 2,517,340-share turnover, heaviest in over a year, a one-half point advance in the Associated Press 60-stock average to 54.9, the highest level since October, 1937, and a large array of gains of a point or more in steels, motors, rubbers, aircrafts, rails, oils, copper and industrial specialties.

Closing gains ranged from 1 to more than 2 points for Chrysler, Goodrich, Goodyear, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Douglas Aircraft, Bendix, International Nickel, American Smelting, Westinghouse, duPont, Allied Chemical, Eastman Kodak, Pullman, Phillips Petroleum, Southern Railway, and Atlantic Coast Line.

Profit taking pressure erased General Motors' early advance and left a few of yesterday's favorites slightly lower. Park & Tilford fell 5 points but other liquor shares were steady.

Scoring best gains in a higher curb market were N. J. Zinc, Aluminum of America, American Cyanamid and Electric Bond & Share. Transactions totaled 444,675 shares.

Rails advanced again in the bond market but the forward movement was ragged in spots and there were occasional laggards.

The volume of trading increased to $14,068,100, face value, from $11,939,000 Thursday.

Chicago Grain Market

CHICAGO, June 16 (AP) — Trading in the grain pits today was dull. The market had a nervous undertone and price trends changed frequently throughout the session. Futures prices of all grains averaged lower at the close.

Wheat closed 1/4 to 1 1/2 lower than yesterday, July $1.59 1/2-3/4. Oats were unchanged to 1 1/2 (CQ) lower, July 75. Rye was off 1/4 to 1/2, July $1.08 1/2-1.09. Barley was unchanged to 1/2 lower, July $1.19 1/2.

Oakland, June 16—Staff Sgt. # Allow Gas for Boats

A ruling from the state rationing board has allowed motor boat owners to receive their allotment of gasoline for the use of boats on Deep Creek Lake, it was announced this morning by W. W. Dawson, chairman of the local war price and rationing board.

The board here had refused applications of boat owners, and asked a ruling from the state office. The state declared that the national office in Washington, in view of the fact that a comparatively negligible quantity of gasoline would be used in this connection, that boat owners should be allowed a minimum ration, which is "akin to the basic 'A' book issued for automobiles."

The state ruling made said, "In the case of an 'A' book the owner is entitled to it as a result of his ownership of the auto. In the case of a non-occupational, non-highway ration for a boat the applicant must show that he has some need for the ration. The word 'need' is broadly interpreted to mean a use for the ration... that he has a boat in usable condition and that he has access to the boat."

Dawson said that as a result applications had been granted to twenty-one persons, allowing them a total of 1,794 gallons of gasoline. Twelve of the applicants were granted at least 15 gallons each, those having large inboard motors.

The local board here had expressed reluctance to issue ration for such use when occupational rations for automobiles were so restricted.

Selectees Called

Nineteen selectees have been ordered to report to the local selective service board in Oakland on Wednesday night, June 21, to be sent to the induction station at Baltimore for their pre-induction physical examination.

The first one listed is a volunteer. Only four are listed as fathers. Those accepted for service will be subject to call after twenty-one days. The list included:

State Auxiliary Of Purple Heart To Be Instituted

Banquet and Ball Tonight Will Highlight Opening of Convention

Formation of the Maryland department of the ladies' auxiliary will be one of the highlights of the third annual convention of the Military Order of the Purple Heart which will get under way today at the home of Henry Hart Post, VFW, with an executive committee meeting at 2 p. m.

The state department of the ladies' auxiliary which will include three units, will be instituted today at 2 p. m., in the VFW home. Officers to head of the organization for first year will be selected from the membership of the Hagerstown, Baltimore and Cumberland units.

Banquet Scheduled Today
A banquet and military ball in the Queen City hotel today at 6:30 p. m., will be the outstanding event on the opening day program. The principal speaker at the banquet will be Dr. Warren L. Fleck, manager of the Fort Howard, Md., Veterans Facility, Robert C. Bowers, past commander of Fort Cumberland (Continued on Page 11, Col. 3)

GATEWAY CHATTER

Writing from the telephone center maintained for the armed forces by the C. and P. Telephone Company of Baltimore City at the Adjutant General's School, Fort Washington, Md., Pvt. W. E. Schuette, Jr., lauds the hospitality shown at the Sunday night "open house" parties for servicemen conducted by Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion.

"When I left home to return to the post, I wondered what in the world I'd do for two hours in Cumberland other than sit and sorrowfully brood about leaving that much time of a furlough," Pvt. Schuette wrote.

"I have only one complaint at the gateway manner of the ladies who checked luggage and glad to have the chance to attend 'open house.' Aside from the excellence of the food and deliciousness of the beer what made me feel best was the atmosphere there. Everyone was a buddy, everything was conducted in an orderly manner and there wasn't anything to remind the soldier of regimentation.

"I'm sure you people do the entertaining because you really want to and enjoy doing it and not because you think it's a patriotic duty. That spirit should prevail more at other centers throughout the country. It certainly makes the servicemen and women feel they are human personalities and not G.I.s."

"Thanks for the treat. I hope to get the chance to pass through again and eat some more."

Although they haven't been moved yet, those coffins of Hitler and Tojo resting on Baltimore street near the Western Maryland railway crossing at least are providing an impetus to bond sales.

"I refuse to have either Hitler or Tojo's coffin rest near our place of business," is the way Frank Molinari of the Cadillac lounge put it up to Joseph M. Naughton, chairman of the War Finance Committee for Allegany county, and Morton Peskin, chairman of the merchant's association task force that is helping put over the Fifth War Loan drive.

Molinari has a plan to push those unwanted black coffins as far up Baltimore street as he can. He promised Naughton to buy one bond each weekday and two on Sundays until the successful finish of the campaign.

To say the least, that's encouraging, said Naughton, who, obviously, can be counted on to do everything in his power to keep the coffins away from the Second National Bank. Maybe other merchants will feel the same way, he added.

Park Pool Stunt Is Unauthorized, Mayor Post Says

News of Demonstration by Walsh on "Busiest" Day Surprises Licot

Mayor Thomas S. Post and Nestor "Ted" Licot, manager of the Constitution park swimming pool, expressed surprise last evening when they read that Elbert A. "Slim" Walsh, former city patrolman now in the United States Maritime Service, is scheduled to demonstrate his all-around overboard suit tomorrow at 4 p. m., in the park pool.

"That's news to me," both the city's chief executive and the pool manager declared.

The mayor said he didn't authorize such a demonstration and Licot said that nobody approached him in regard to putting on such a show.

"If Walsh expects to go through with his act he will have to get authority for use of the pool from the City Park Board," Post said.

Peskin Also Puzzled
The mayor also contacted W. Morton Peskin, chairman of the mercantile bureau's war bond committee, and inquired as to who gave Walsh permission to put on his stunt. Peskin admitted he was in the dark also and assured the mayor he would investigate the matter before making a report in the morning.

In the meantime Licot said that it would be impossible to stage such a demonstration on Sunday at 4 p. m., because that's usually the busiest time and pool attendants will have their hands full with the regular crowd without trying to handle an additional swarm at the popular pool.

"It might be all right to stage such a demonstration Sunday night," Licot said, "but Sunday afternoon is out and I'm sure the Park Board will agree with me."

So Walsh's demonstration is "out the window" until arrangements can be made by contacting the proper authority, Post said.

826 Pay To Swim
Yesterday was an unusually large day at the pool, Licot announced. There were 826 paid admissions recorded in addition to the servicemen who are admitted without charge. Licot said that he expects a record crowd if the warm weather continues. Last Sunday's attendance of 1,250 was the high mark for the current season. Sunday and holiday hours at the pool are 10 a. m. to 10 p. m., while on other days the pool is open from noon to 10 p. m.

Local Woman Is Killed when Car Strikes Bridge

Mrs. Lottie C. Bennett Dies Instantly; Husband Is Injured

Mrs. Lottie Charlotte Bennett, 64, of 717 Bedford street, was instantly killed and her husband, Luther Bennett, 69, retired carpenter, was injured yesterday afternoon at 1:50 o'clock when the car he was driving crashed against a steel girder of the Pennsylvania Railroad bridge at Macrewe Park.

Dr. Linn H. Corson, county deputy medical examiner, who issued a verdict of accidental death, said that Mrs. Bennett died instantly of shock and a terrific hemorrhage when all the great vessels of the neck were severed after her head struck the right windshield of the car. She also suffered a fractured nose and multiple contusions and lacerations.

Bennett Is Injured
Mrs. Bennett was dead when Troopers Ira G. Unger and Glen D. Folk of the state police arrived in a police ambulance following a call at 1:54 o'clock.

Bennett, who was taken to Allegheny hospital in the state police ambulance, was admitted to the hospital at 2 o'clock, suffering from shock, a fractured jaw, lacerations of the chin and below the right knee, and possible chest injuries. X-rays are to be taken today to determine the extent of the chest injuries. His condition was described as "fair" last evening.

When authorities arrived, Dr. Corson said, Mrs. Bennett was clutching her husband's right arm with both her hands. Bennett, at the time was conscious but lost consciousness as he was being lifted from the car.

Takes Eyes Off Road
It was reported that Bennett last evening explained that he had placed the pipe he was smoking into the glove compartment of the car. Mrs. Bennett, wondering if all the ashes had been knocked out, opened the door of the compartment after remarking that she believed she smelled smoke. When she opened the door, Bennett took his eyes off the road and when he looked up the wall of the bridge was right in front of him.

City Employees Defer Action On Strike Vote

Comply with Request of Mayor Post, Who Asks for Two Weeks' Grace

At the request of Mayor Thomas S. Post, Municipal Workers Local 812, yesterday agreed to withhold action on taking a strike vote of city street, water and sewer department employees for a period of two weeks.

The mayor conferred with Calvin W. Shipes, president of the union, for one hour yesterday in city hall, and it was mutually agreed to avert any stoppage of work on the part of city employees until the mayor is given additional time to discuss the matter of a four cents an hour pay raise for laborers with members of the council.

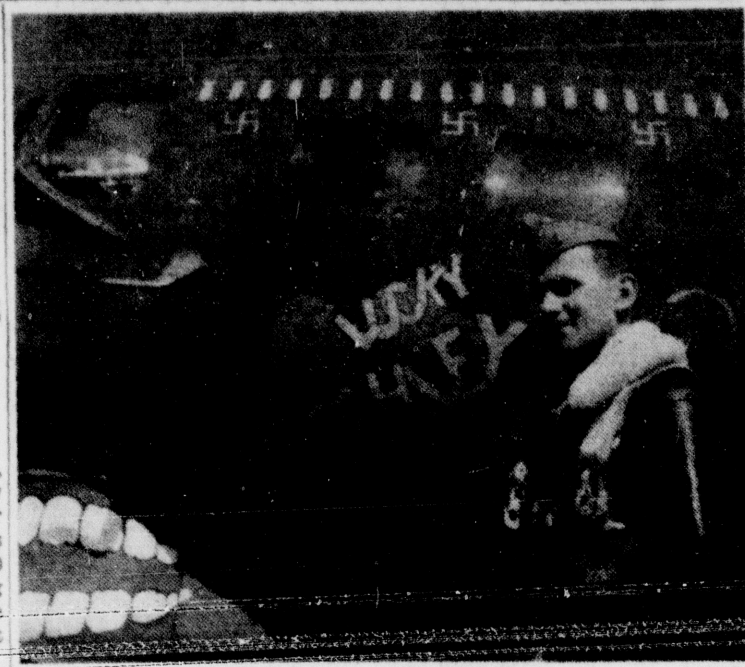

"It's such a small amount to bicker about," the mayor declared, "and I'm confident that the council will act favorably to avert a stoppage of work."

Mayor Post said that between twenty-five and thirty laborers are involved and that the increase asked for each man only amounts to $1.80 a week.

Meeting with the mayor at the latter's request, Shipes said that the workers are talking of "closing shop" after the council defeated the wage increase order of four cents (.66 to .70 cents an hour) at a special meeting on Thursday morning. At the same session the council approved an order granting a two weeks' paid vacation and six days' sick leave to hourly employees of the water, street and sewer departments.

Post pointed out that the laborers are paid very low wages and he's heartily in favor of them getting the increase they ask.

Support of Mayor Asked for Home Vacation Program

Mayors' Conference Seeks To Reduce Burden on Rail, Bus Lines

Mayor Thomas S. Post has been requested by the United States Conference of Mayors to support an "at home" vacation program so as to eliminate vacation travel requiring transportation on railroads or inter-city bus lines.

In this crisis the Office of Defense Transportation solicits the co-operation of all mayors in a concerted effort to reduce the burden in transport facilities.

Emphasis is placed on the fact that traffic lines must be cleared this summer in order to service the invasion. With the increasing military activity Americans can't wait until hospital ships arrive in port to step up the home efforts. Even so vacationers may be stranded away from home, and from work, if and when Pullman sleeping cars are taken to care for the wounded. Transport facilities for the armed forces must be in readiness when the demand comes; the necessity is here to go all-out on the home front to have them ready, the ODT cautions.

Must Prepare Now
The only hope of meeting this situation is to prepare for it now. That will require a concerted effort to reduce all travel; to keep unessential travelers from making that trip, to persuade individuals and families to make this an "at home" vacation.

The co-operative patriotic solution to the travel situation is for all to contribute by refraining from making unnecessary use of public transportation facilities. Priorities and rationing of travel have been suggested, but the ODT believes that Americans everywhere are willing to go all-out to promote the war effort. The ODT is convinced that, with the proper leadership, the necessary conservation of vital transportation will be achieved without the need for difficult government control, and believes that local leaders, the mayors of cities from coast-to-coast, are both the logical and the indispensable leaders of such a campaign.

Makes Recommendations
In stressing the necessity of an "at home" vacation, the ODT's substitutes for vacation travel are parks, recreation areas, swimming places and picnic grounds available to the public. It also recommends golf courses, tennis clubs, roller skating rinks, dance pavilions, baseball, bowling alleys, theater and outdoor concerts.

Mayor F. H. LaGuardia, of New York city, president of the United States Conference of Mayors, has assured the ODT of the conference's whole-hearted co-operation and urges that all mayors publicize the "at home" vacation program.

Loughrie Arrests Five in Sugar Coupon Racket

Deputy Marshal Nabs Men in Washington County after Investigation

The arrest of five Washington county men in a federal investigation of widespread circulation of counterfeit sugar ration coupons, was reported last evening by Howard P. Loughrie, deputy United States marshal, upon his return from Hagerstown.

Two others were cited to appear at hearings next week. Announcement of the arrests came through Charles Cushman, agent in charge of the Hagerstown Alcohol Tax unit, one of which had been previously reported.

At the same time, Cushman said, a "national search" was underway for the source of the counterfeit stamps. Arthur Perlmutter, OPA investigator, and Federal Bureau of Investigation agents participated in the inquiry.

State OPA Director Leo H. McCormick and his assistants said at Baltimore that a check of "black market" activities in sugar was started several weeks ago, when examination under a special light showed counterfeit coupons in ration banking accounts in the Hagerstown area.

Liquor Angle Seen
The Alcohol Tax Division was called in, McCormick explained, because of a suspicion that sugar was being used to make illicit liquor.

Last week, Charles H. Clarke, Jr., 26, Washington county, infielder for the Lancaster, Pa., club of the Interstate Baseball League, was arrested by Loughrie in Hagerstown. He was released by United States Commissioner Welles Little under $2,000 bond pending federal grand jury action on three counts—selling counterfeit sugar ration stamps, illegal possession of 1,000 pounds of sugar, and possession of counterfeit gasoline ration stamps.

Others arrested by Loughrie, all of whom were accused of "unlawfully acquiring and possessing sugar ration stamps, were:

Joseph Hines, owner of a small general store at Knoxville, Md.; Howard T. Myers, proprietor of a small store at Dargan, Md.; Frank Kefauver, of near Keedysville, and Herbert Bryan, of Dry Run, Md. Loughrie said Myers is being held under $5,000 bond and Hines, Bryan and Kefauver under $1,000 bond each.

Hearings Dates Set
Cushman said that Weaver Moser, a Washington county farmer, and Charles Pound, a Boonsboro baker, have been summoned to appear before United States Commissioner Little next Wednesday and Thursday, when the four are to receive preliminary hearings.

Cossacks Present Varied Program For Bond Drive

Naughton Warns Sales Are Less Than Those of Earlier Drives

Nearly 600 persons attended a recital of the famous Gen. Platoff Don Cossack Chorus at Fort Hill auditorium yesterday at 8 p. m.

The twenty-seven members of the male chorus, which has toured fifty-four nations in the eighteen years of its existence, have been visiting army camps, hospitals and cities for six weeks, giving recitals for the benefit of the Fifth War Loan drive.

Dressed in native costumes of blue blouses, black trousers and blue visor caps trimmed in red, the singers presented eight Russian folk songs and concluded the program with a number of Cossack dances.

As the recital went on the air at 8:15 over WTBO, Charles A. Piper, head of the Allegheny-Garrett county war loan drive, opened the program with a brief speech of thanks to the chorus for offering the recital as their voluntary contribution to the drive.

Bond Sales Lag

The chorus offered first "The Song of the Flea," a musical account of a ruler who preferred the society of a trained flea to that of his court attendants. The popular "Song of the Volga Boatman" was followed by a ballad of twelve Russian robbers who repented of their sins.

Joseph N. Naughton, Allegheny county chairman of the Fifth War Loan drive, was presented by William Prager, master of ceremonies and manager of the Don Cossack troupe. Naughton announced that subscriptions in the first few days of the present bond drive are behind those of the Fourth and Third War Loan drives for a similar period. He broadcast an appeal for more subscriptions to meet the $3,000,000 Allegheny county quota before July 8.

Bonds Are Sold

The musical program was resumed with an original arrangement of "Dark Eyes," followed by a Cossack war song and three Russian folksongs. At 9 o'clock the chorus went off the air, and the chorus then performed its famous Cossack acrobatic dance feature for the benefit of those in the auditorium. At the end of the program the singers, with their leader, Nicholas Kostukoff, stood at stiff salute to take three curtain calls.

A temporary bond booth was set up in the foyer after the recital for the benefit of those in the audience who wished to buy bonds on their way out.
